1. ABOUT COOKIES

As described in our Privacy Policy, we collect information in a few ways, one of which is cookies.

Cookies are small text files sent to your device each time you visit our Website or enter the Services, unique to your user account, your browser or device to record log data. We use several types of cookies:

- “Session” cookies (i.e., cookies that are temporary cookie files that last until you close your browser or exit the Services). Once you end your session by closing your browser or exiting the Services, all session cookies are deleted. Examples of how we use session cookies are: loading the Services in your preferred designated language.
- “Persistent” cookies (i.e., cookies that remain on your device until you or your browser deletes them, or for the period set in the specific cookie). Such cookies are activated each time you use the Services or visit our Website.

We also use cookies to store your general preferences and settings so you don’t have to set them up every time you visit the Services. Some of the cookies we use are associated with your account (including personal information about you, such as the email address you gave us), and other cookies are not.

Cookies can be served directly by us to your device or by third parties on our behalf for the purposes described in the table below.
